

Cherry, otherwise known as xLeafe_on and his various aliases, is a notorious furry user who we can accuse of bad attitude and greediness. This is for justice and to go against his aggression or slander; A way to bring a bad user such as Cherry, with an infamous name that many would know, that he may never show himself or be loved as before.

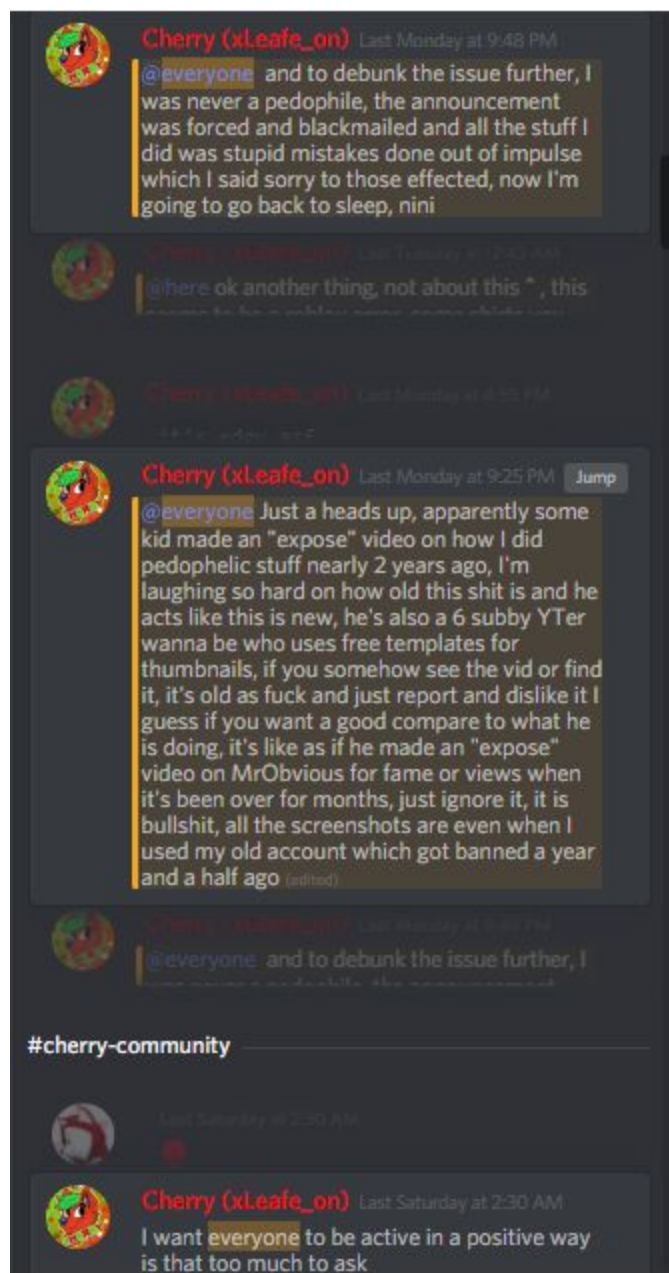

-0-

First, This paper will detail his constant bad attitude. A never-ending destruction of his little mannerisms and actions that will destroy all opposition. One of these actions is the purge command. We supplement you of viable proof, by asking mods or ex-mods of his actions of purging. Cherry abuses this command to clear all evidence of his mistakes or worse, all data against him. This is his way to hide his already dying reputation. He may purge it in the text channels, but he fail to purge it in our minds.

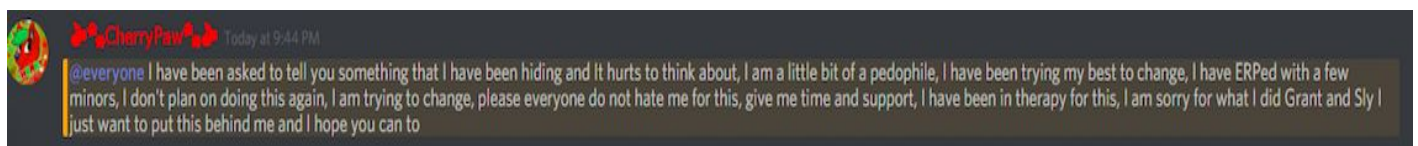

He constantly pings people for various things. No one wants to be pinged constantly day in and day out over such trivial things like clothing, his merchandise, his beliefs. I would like to emphasize his beliefs. He believes that furies are a superiority and that all who oppose them should be shunned. This is also his weak argument, that any that oppose him or what he loves is a furry-hater. Make a questionable shirt? Cherry would ask his group to mass report you. Make a questionable group name? Cherry will speak passionately over how it should be destroyed. Yes, this is Cherry's greatest tool of prejudice, getting the power and support via the hatred of people to furry haters. I present him proof of these constant @here-s.

Understandably, this would be okay if it was one ping and it was at least relevant to activity. This crossed the line; various pings over something so petty you can just say to the people casually. After searching the recent @everyones, I found these two defensive announcements.

He is turning down various accusations and giving himself public protection by turning it down on public. It is usually when someone denies it, it is actually true if the data is right. Although this sounds like old news, it still proves the fact that he has done this misdeeds. How? I present more proof.

Finally for his attitude, we will talk about his so-called death threats. Below is a picture of his so-called act to cover his actions, on how he details that he did not do a death threat.

Cherry asks his staff to pay for unnecessary bits that in the long run only hurt us and just save him a quick buck. He is also very greedy about his hats, refusing to sell them to help out with the group. He pays himself out using the group funds, and is constantly saying he doesn't have any money. Although, he does use a good chunk of the Group Funds towards ads. These ads don't actually do much, and haven't pulled many numbers especially since they're just in short 20 R$ bursts.

The next factor we will get into consideration is his begging. He asks richer users for donations, even if he has money. He asks for people to buy his VIP servers, clothes. He constantly asks donation and sends bad trades for other people's good items as a way to gain money. He begged people a lot for trades for a valkyrie helm. He even encourages you to donate to the group and you could even buy ranks before with shirts.

As for now, this is all we charge him.