Executive Summary

- [REDACTED]
- Publishers captured the majority of total industry profit (66%); platforms in closed ecosystems/networks (e.g., Console, Mobile, Browser) generated 39-46% of segment profits while platforms in open ecosystems (i.e. PC Client) generated only 5% of segment profit
- Platforms' relatively low share of PC Client segment profit (5%) reflects revenue flowing directly from consumers to publishers—83% of worldwide PC Client revenue
- Free-to-Play remains the industry's primary business model (70% of total revenue), is the largest driver of profit (74% of total), and sees the healthiest profit margins (32%), a function of publishers' ability to invest with demonstrated market success
- Tencent¹ is the largest company in the industry, generating an estimated $19.4B in revenue and $6.3B in profit
- In addition to Tencent, 9 other companies generated more than $1B in profit¹ from software & services including Apple ($5.2B), Sony ($4.1B), Google ($3.2B), Netease ($2.4B), Nintendo ($2.3B), Microsoft [REDACTED], Activision Blizzard ($1.6B), EA ($1.2B), and Epic ($1.0B)²
- Dedicated hardware [REDACTED] remains a key enabler of software & services participation for Sony, Nintendo, and Microsoft

[1] Tencent revenue & profit figures above are adjusted to reflect intra-value chain revenue & profit shares (e.g. platform fees for digital app stores), exclude non-gaming revenue, and adjust for YoY change in deferred revenue. As such, they will not tie to Tencent's reported revenue & profit. See slide 40 for more detail on Tencent's gaming P&L. [2] Reflects Fortnite, Rocket League, and Epic Games Store only; excludes Unreal Engine, etc. [3] Consumer spend in CY2019; hardware manufacturers recognized [REDACTED] of this as reported revenue.

Commentary

- 1 Estimated YouTube & Twitch net revenue per public filings and Wall Street research
- 2 Assumes no meaningful profit for other players in the segment; preliminary research indicates most Chinese players are running at close to breakeven

[1] For Unobserved Players, Net Revenue ex-TAC represents estimated gross profit per equity research. Given that ~80% of this category is based in China, the monetization & flow of funds mechanics may be different for these game video players.

Browser: Flow of Profit by Platform and Publisher

Browser continues to be a declining segment and exhibits the lowest segment margin overall (19%)

USD Billions; $0.8B Browser Software & Services ("SW&S") profit

Note: Platform revenue and profit includes subscriptions, platform share from digital store, and manufacturing royalties on physical discs but excludes first-party publishing (e.g. Xbox Game Studios).
[1] Includes $0.3B of estimated unobserved profit. For more details on the methodology used to calculate this unobserved profit, see slide 32.

Appendix 2 | Adjusted Revenue Reconciliation

Platform Holder Adjusted SW&S Net Rev Reconciliation (USD Billions)

Analysis adjusts for various revenue recognition methodologies and hardware revenue across platform holders

Platform Holder	Reporting Segment(s)	CY19 Reported Revenue	Total Segment Adjustments	Description of Adjustments	CY19 Adj. Software & Services Net Revenue
Tencent	Value-Added Services	$20.3	($0.8)	Excludes mobile platform fees (e.g. iOS) and income from associates (which co-mingles gaming & non-gaming income). Adds back YoY change in deferred revenue to better align reported revenue with CY18 consumer spend.	$19.4
Apple	Services	$11.6	-	Apple does not report iOS App Store as a separate segment. Gaming revenue estimated per AppAnnie. Reported revenue includes only platform share (30%) and excludes publisher share (70%) as confirmed via public filings. Excludes Apple Arcade given small size.	$11.6
Sony	Gaming & Network Services	$18.8	($11.3)	Excludes hardware (e.g. PlayStation 4, PS Vita) and accessories (controllers, PSVR). Also excludes advertising from digital store, retail disc royalties and third-party publisher share of publicly disclosed digital transactions (i.e. 70%) to avoid double-counting.	$7.5
Alphabet	Google	$9.9	($0.4)	Google Play gaming revenue estimated per AppAnnie and includes only platform share (30%). YouTube revenue based on public filings and allocated to Gaming via Newzoo survey data, adjusted for total acquisition cost (TAC). Stadia revenue estimated per IDG research.	$9.5
Microsoft
Nintendo	All, excluding "Playing Cards"	$11.2	($6.2)	Excludes hardware (e.g. Switch) and accessories. Also excludes mobile platform fees, advertising from digital store, retail disc royalties and third-party publisher share of estimated (per equity research) digital transactions (i.e. 70%) to avoid double-counting.	$5.0

Methodology:

- 1 Obtain revenue & profit for the Game & Network segment from public financials
- 2
- 3 Allocate publicly disclosed R&D and implied S&M by Segment Adjusted Revenue

Note: Dollars in Millions. Totals are rounded to the nearest million and may not tie. JPY converted to USD at 12/31/19 spot rate. Excludes $0.4B of ads and non-gaming revenue (see slide 39 for more detail); total G&NS segment reported review is $18.8B. [1] Net of retailer margins. Reflects 100% of consumer spend in Sony digital store; adjusted revenue calculation adjusts for YoY change in deferred revenue and intra-value-chain payments (e.g. app store economics). [2] Includes PSNow subscriptions as well as 1P/3P transactions on games transacted through Sony's streaming service. Given the nascency of the segment, we have captured streaming revenue in our analysis but do not believe Sony drives material profit through streaming at this time. Methodology:

- ¹ Obtained revenue broken out annually by Platform and used Goldman Sachs Research mix to breakout HW/SW, 1P/3P, digital/physical sales. Blended GS and Morgan Stanley Research figures for Nintendo Switch Online
- ² Obtained gross margin % for mobile, hardware, subscriptions from Goldman Sachs Research. Split remaining reported Gross Margin across segments proportionally by adjusted revenue
- ³ Split implied Opex proportionally by Gross Margin.

Profile: Google

Key Information

- US-based search company that owns and operates the Google Play store, YouTube, and Stadia
- Google Play continues to be the primary driver of gaming revenue for the company with near-ubiquitous global presence
- Google recently released Stadia, a cloud streaming service, in 2019 with 2 price tiers (Basic and Pro) and a selection of 3P games, along with a 1P controller. The company is working on forming internal studios to develop and publish 1P games

USD Millions	Reported Revenue ¹	Adjusted Revenue	Operating Profit	Operating Profit Margin %
Google Play 1	$7,954	$7,954	$2,704	34%
YouTube 2	$1,934	$1,527	$502	33%
Stadia 3	$11	$11	N/A	N/A
Google Total	$9,899	$9,492	$3,206	34%

Methodology:

- 1 Play Store: Obtained gaming-related mobile store adjusted revenues from App Annie and estimated operating profit based on equity research
- 2 YouTube: Built bottoms up model leveraging Google financial disclosures and equity research, estimated % attributable to gaming
- 3 Stadia: Estimated using syndicated research on cloud streaming providers. Assumes no meaningful profit due to relative size and OpEx heavy consumption by segment

Source: Google financial disclosures, App Annie, Wall Street equity research, syndicated research. [1] Reported revenue for the Play Store is considered net revenue, i.e. the 30% platform fee paid by publishers who sell through the Play Store. YouTube reported revenue includes CAC.

Profile: Valve

Key Information

- US game developer and digital distribution company founded in Bellevue in 1996 by two ex-Microsoft employees. About 700 employees to date, including CEO and founder Gabe Newell.
- Owns and operates PC software distribution platform Steam, also makes consumer hardware (Steam Controller, VR)
- Adjusted net revenues remained flat YoY, as an increase of 1P revenue (+10% YoY) was offset by a decrease in Steam store revenue (-10%)

Key Franchises

- DOTA 2
- Counter-Strike: Global Offensive
- Team Fortress 2
- Garry's Mod
- Left 4 Dead
- Portal
- Half-Life

USD Millions	Reported Revenue	Adjusted Revenue	Operating Profit	Operating Profit Margin % ¹

3P Platform	$4,541	$1,226	$498	41%
Valve Total ²	$5,820 ¹	$2,505 ²	$901 ³	36%

Methodology:

- 1 Reported revenue estimated using Superdata research for key 1P titles (e.g. DOTA 2, Counter-Strike: Global Offensive, Team Fortress 2) and for all Steam business
- 2 Adjusted net revenue on 1P games and Steam store after platform fees
- 3 Estimated operating margin for 1P business based on Activision PC EBIT %, for Steam store based on iOS / GP platform EBIT %

Note: Reported revenue reflects total consumer spend; adjusted revenue deducts the estimated 73% share paid to publishers from Valve's 3P digital store. Sources: Superdata, Steamspy. [1] Calculated off adjusted revenue; assumes 1P business is similar to Activision's PC business and Steam store is similar to mobile app stores. [2] Total does not include their Peer-to-peer sales business, which is assumed to be immaterial

Profile: Activision Blizzard

Key Information

- Holding company for subsidiaries Activision, Blizzard Entertainment, and King Digital
- Key franchises include Call of Duty (Activision), Candy Crush (King), Starcraft, Warcraft, Diablo, and Overwatch (Blizzard)
- 409M monthly active users in Q4 CY2019, led by King (249M), Activision (128M), and Blizzard (32M)

USD Millions	Reported Revenue ¹	Adjusted Revenue ²	Operating Profit

Mobile	$2,204	$1,548	$488
Gaming Total	$5,641	$5,077	$1,600

Methodology:

- 1) Obtain reported revenue and operating income by segment from Form 10-K and ATVI investor disclosures
- 2) Adjust reported revenue to account for publicly disclosed YoY change in deferred revenue as well as estimated mobile platform fees
- 3) Allocate reported operating income to each segment proportional to adjusted revenue

Source: Activision Blizzard 10-K. [1] Excluding Others, which includes media networks, studios, distribution businesses, and licensing/merchandising. Total reported revenue (including Others) for CY2019 was $6.5 billion. [2] Adjusted revenue reflects YoY change in deferred revenue and mobile platform fees.

Profile: Epic Games

- Following a standout year in CY2018, Fortnite revenue declined by one-third; the title remained a standout performer across multiple segments
- Epic acquired Psyonix and its Rocket League (RL) IP in May 2019 to diversify its 1P content portfolio
- In January 2019, Epic launched the Epic Games Store on PC; given the company's public commitment to a 12% platform fee, we believe the store makes a minimal financial contribution to Epic's overall business

1P Publishing (Fortnite, RL)	CY2018 Reported Revenue	CY2019 Reported Revenue	YoY %
Console	$4,678	$2,885	(38%)
PC Client	$997	$429	(57%)

Sources: AppAnnie, Epic Games press release, Superdata Research, Xbox Finance. Analysis assumes that Epic recognizes 100% of consumer spend as revenue and deducts relevant platform fees as COGS, in line with other major U.S. game publishers. Epic Games Store "Adjusted Revenue" reflects Epic's 12% platform fee as opposed to the industry-standard 30%.

Profile: Netease

Key Information

- Chinese technology company whose portfolio primarily consists of gaming, ecommerce, media, and education services
- In addition to mobile and PC 1P gaming titles (e.g. Fantasy Westward Journey, Rules of Survival), Netease licenses games from Activision Blizzard for distribution in China (e.g. World of Warcraft, Hearthstone, Overwatch)
- Approximately 60% of the company's revenues are associated with gaming. Fantasy Westward Journey, its most popular title, generated nearly $800M in reported revenue on mobile platforms in CY2019

USD Millions	Reported Revenue	Adjusted Revenue	Operating Profit	Operating Profit Margin %
