

I think we are all fed up with Cherry declaring to stop dealing with them and that how we should stop fighting with them.

Fine, let's get to a whole new level of the current events of the deal between the two groups, Fluff and Stuff and Team Cherry. The deal was: that he would leave us alone if we leave them alone.

This is a current event with no past information, so Cherry, if you're reading this, you can't tell that we are at fault for bringing the past. You have wrought this on yourself, with the next chain of events:

It is inevitable to have spies on each side be it knowing to the owners of the group or employed, but the owner, Cherry, has used information to try and sabotage Fluff and Stuff by using his aggressive action to try and shutdown the Fluff and Stuff discord server by "mass reporting" Fluff and Stuff for NSFW. Sadly, to detail the past, this is hypocritical to Cherry's actions of NSFW or suggestiveness when he also post pictures.

Anyways, Cherry would ask his group again with a ping to report Fluff and Stuff for having this NSFW, thus breaking the deal. We are not at fault here; We were simply returning favor when you break the rule.

Afterwards this incident, Cherry has done various things but wanted to re-establish the deal of peace. Well, it varies on some points, but it is on the point of breaking again. (depends on time)

<https://imgur.com/a/NBM7H>

Above is a screenshot of the announcements during February 26 or 27 above having "spies."

According to Vulture, I quote: "people continuing to bring up something that has happened in the past, things that everyone seems to not want to drop." and "We will not stand for someone to bring up the past, and to the spies from F&S; Give up. You will not win."

We are not having a fight, and I outlook the mention of "You will not win." If this wasn't about the competition among groups, why is Cherry trying to turn spies coming from Fluff and Stuff down, and not the spies from his server? This is totally one-sided; Trying to make it seem that we're the only one continuing the fight. Hence, this post: ""you are welcome to kick anyone in the furies 1-2/furry supporter/guest role that you never see speak, never seen in any other servers, something that looks like an alt thrown together or so."

Yes, this maybe a staff idea, but you're giving the permission to kick people just for the fear that maybe spies! If the deal was all throughout taken, you don't have to do that because your business is yours.

Lastly, this is addressed to Cherry. You speak of "no-lives wasting time looking for stuff that isn't there." Well, Cherry, you're wasting your time trying to fight off people from Fluff and Stuff that aren't there. Look to yourself, it is not Fluff and Stuff's fault that you have drama in your server. It comes from within.